Work Opportunities for Persons with Disabilities

MARCH 24, 2011 BY MADJAC1 LEAVE A COMMENT

Subscribers to the Job Training and Placement Report monthly newsletter (www.impact-publications.com – “JTPR” link), and other advocates for greater employment opportunities for persons with disabilities, will be interested in learning about two new online resources.

Springboard Consulting, a company whose mission is to mainstream disability in the workplace, announces it is launching an online employment center for connecting qualified candidates with disabilities with employers who are looking for qualified candidates. The idea is to match employers who are unsure of where to locate such candidates, and people with disabilities who are unsure which companies are truly committed to recruiting and retaining them. The center is free to qualified candidates with disabilities. Resumes will be accepted at www.consultspringboard.com/employment-center.

APSE, formerly the Association for Persons in Supported Employment, has recently partnered with GettingHired.com to close the employment gap for people with disabilities while helping employers meet the challenge of finding qualified workers. The free resource is located at <http://www.GettingHired.com/apse>. Help spread the work about these exciting new resources!
